

HOLIDAY GREETINGS

FROM CAROL & GERRY'S HOME TO

--

The first year of the new millenium has been a busy time. It started off with a New Year's trip to the magical winter wonderland of Yellowstone and visits to backwoods geysers. We also enjoyed pleasurable trips with family and friends to the Florida Keys and the Mexican Pacific Coast. Over Thanksgiving we returned to the snowy outdoors, spending a few days hiking and eating turkey in Rocky Mountain National Park.

Of course, we also had an intense and challenging year of work. Carol's private therapy practice, Blissful Endeavours, is thriving. Gerry continues his research in educational software at the University of Colorado and taught a seminar on the philosophy of artifacts.

We will spend the transition to next year visiting our families in Troy and Philadelphia. Hope to see you in 2001!
